Festival Punch-Pass-holders are required to obtain a ticket for each film attended, either in advance or day of show; a hole will be punched in pass for each ticket purchased. Festival Punch-Passes can be used to purchase multiple tickets for the same show. Festival Punch-Passes can be used at all venues.
AFI Project: 20/20 is an American Film Institute (AFI) international initiative designed to enhance cultural exchange, understanding, and collaboration through filmmakers and their films from the U.S. and abroad. It is an unprecedented cultural diplomacy effort that is supported by the U.S.'s cultural agencies — National Endowment for the Arts (NEA), National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH), Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS), the President’s Committee on the Arts and the Humanities, and the Department of State — and it is a component of the Department of State's Global Cultural Initiative. Through workshops, seminars and appearances at film festivals, cultural centers, museums, and educational venues, Project: 20/20 filmmakers will promote mutual understanding, while nurturing filmmaking excellence. Representing 10 countries, 2007 AFI Project: 20/20 introduces a multicultural roster of films signifying a universal perspective that challenges us to examine, reflect, and celebrate diversity.

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

Peter Greenaway
One of the world's preeminent filmmakers, Peter Greenaway has provoked, entertained, scandalized, and occasionally baffled audiences for more than three decades with movies – shorts, documentaries, and features – that are as outlandishly beautiful as they are intellectually challenging. “The Falls” (1980) helped establish his international reputation, which was then heightened by such films as “The Draughtsman’s Contract” (1982), “Drowning by Numbers” (1988), “The Cook, the Thief, His Wife and Her Lover” (1989), and “Prospero’s Books” (1991). He recently completed his multimedia opus “The Tulse Luper Suitcases,” and his acclaimed new film “Nightwatching,” about Rembrandt, will be released in 2008.

John Sayles and Maggie Renzi
A pioneering American independent filmmaker, John Sayles first gained widespread notice in 1980, with “Return of the Secaucus 7.” Made for a mere $60,000, the film earned fine reviews and inspired an unofficial studio remake in “The Big Chill.” Since that auspicious debut, Sayles has written and directed such memorable works as “Matewan” (1987), “Eight Men Out” (1988), “City of Hope” (1991), and “Lone Star” (1996), while doing occasional work-for-hire screenplays to help finance his personal projects. He’s also a lauded short-story writer and novelist (“The Anarchists’ Convention,” “Union Dues”). Maggie Renzi, Sayles’ producing and life partner, has acted in eight of their films together and served as producer on every movie since “Secaucus.” Their latest collaboration is “Honeydripper.”

James Gunn

Alex Gibney

Lynn Hershman Leeson
An award-winning artist excelling in multiple media – photographic, video, performance/installation, and interactive digital art – Lynn Hershman Leeson has been making pioneering works since the 1960s. Her art has appeared in more... than 200 exhibitions and is in the collections of such institutions as the Museum of Modern Art and the Walker Art Center. She’s a professor emeritus at the University of California, Davis, and A.D. White Professor-at-Large at Cornell University. Since the late 1990s, Hershman Leeson has expanded her already vast range to include film. Her first movie, “Conceiving Ada” (1998), debuted at Sundance, which also premiered her “Teknolust” (2002). Hershman Leeson’s latest is “Strange Culture,” a provocative hybrid of documentary and docudrama, and she’s currently at work on a film that chronicles the history of feminist art.

Audience Choice

Audience voting determines the winner of four awards from among the films in competition:

• BEST FILM AWARD
• BEST INTERNATIONAL FILM AWARD
• LEON AWARD FOR BEST DOCUMENTARY (named in memory of the late civic leader Leon Strauss)
• VITAL VOICE AWARD FOR BEST GLBT FILM

Juried Competition

INTERFAITH AWARDS

A jury gives Interfaith Awards to both a documentary and a feature, choosing from among 10 competition films (five in each category), which were selected for their artistic merit, contribution to the understanding of the human condition, and recognition of ethical, social, and spiritual values.

The 2007 Interfaith Sidebar selection committee was David Gast (chair), board chairman of the Carl F. Gast Co.; Delicia Corlew, member of the Cinema St. Louis board; Tullia Hamilton, nonprofit consultant; Paul Marsh, retired architect; Mikel Monnett, chaplain at Barnes Hospital; Tom Stockdale, minister (retired); and Lee Whiston, emeritus professor of the Old Testament at Eden Theological Seminary. The documentary jury is Kanak Gautam, associate professor of healthcare management at St. Louis University; Jill Petzell, filmmaker, writer, and designer for Beacon Productions; and Betty White, professor of English (retired). The feature jury is Sandra Olmsted, adjunct faculty member in English at St. Louis University, Fontbonne University, and Southwestern Illinois College; Pat Scallet, filmmaker and editor; and Joya Uraizee, associate professor of English at St. Louis University.

NFF EMERGING DIRECTOR AWARD

The InBaseline New Filmmakers Forum (NFF) annually presents the Emerging Director Award. Five works by first-time feature filmmakers compete for the prize, which includes a $500 cash award, a year’s subscription to Baseline’s StudioSystem database, and Avid Xpress Pro editing software.

The NFF jury is Scott Foundas (chair), film editor for the LA Weekly and a film reviewer for Variety; Bill Appleton, assistant director for public programs and education at the Saint Louis Art Museum; Diane Carson, retired professor of film at St. Louis Community College at Meramec; Scott Phillips, author of “The Ice Harvest” and “Cottonwood”; and Joe Williams, film critic for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS GATEWAY FILM CRITICS ASSOCIATION AWARD

The metro area’s film critics inaugurate their own award at this year’s SLIFF. The critics and SLIFF have selected a dozen films for the jury to view. The films were chosen on the basis of critical recognition, festival awards, and filmmaker reputation. The films selected were “Aviva My Love,” “Beauty in Trouble,” “Children of Glory,” “The Diving Bell and the Butterfly,” “Dry Season,” “Emma’s Bliss,” “Getting Home,” “Grace Is Gone,” “Honeydripper,” “Persepolis,” “Tuya’s Marriage,” and “When a Man Falls in the Forest.”

The jury is Cate Marquis, Rob Levy, Sandra Olmsted, Joe Williams, and Calvin Wilson.

SHORTS AWARDS

A jury chooses the winner of six awards from among the short subjects in competition:

• BEST OF FEST
• BEST ANIMATED SHORT
• BEST LIVE ACTION SHORT
• BEST SHORT SHORT (LESS THAN 5 MINUTES)
• BEST LOCAL SHORT
• BEST INTERNATIONAL SHORT

The SLIFF shorts competition is officially sanctioned by the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences, making the winners in the Best of Fest, Best Animated, and Best Live Action categories eligible to submit for Oscar consideration. The Best of Fest winner also receives a $500 cash prize from AtomFilms, a meeting with an AtomFilms director of content acquisition, and a certificate for a year’s subscription to Baseline’s StudioSystem database. All six shorts winners will be featured on AtomUploads (www.atomuploads.com).

The jury is Adam Hackbart, screenwriter of “Inbred Redneck Alien Abduction” and “Darkworld”; Brent Hoff, editor of the “Wholphin” DVD journal and former writer for “The Daily Show”; Tina Santamauro, acquisitions manager for AtomFilms; and RD Zurick, filmmaker and retired film teacher.

AT&T ST. LOUIS INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL THANKS 23
AFGHAN MUSCLES
ANDREAS DALSGAARD,
DENMARK, 2006, 58 MIN.
Farsi And English With English Subtitles
Monday, Nov. 12, 5 P.M.
Tivoli Theatre

In post-Taliban Afghanistan, the extremely popular sport of bodybuilding is an island of normalcy in an ocean of lingering chaos. Seeing the aficionados of the sport pour their passion into a pastime that barely registers in the rest of the world is somehow desperately compelling; the conditions under which practitioners train reveal just how far a little hope and faith can go in the wake of more than three decades of conflict. The film focuses on Noor and Hamid, the strongest men in Kabul. Last year, they were both champions in their categories, the first competition since the Taliban came to power. They are modern men – educated and trendy – but still as humble and polite as the Afghan code of conduct demands.

Director Dalsgaard will attend.

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL
DARRYL ROBERTS
USA, 2007, 105 MIN.
Monday, Nov. 12, 7:15 P.M.
Tivoli Theatre

In a society where “celebutantes” such as Paris Hilton dominate newsstands and aspiring models who weigh less than 90 pounds die from malnutrition, the lofty and mostly unobtainable standards we have placed on the concept of the ideal female body image is one of the more dire problems facing both men and women of all ages. “America the Beautiful” probes our national cultural obsession with beauty and arbitrary cultural definitions of what the human body, the female body in particular, should look like. Director/producer Darryl Roberts illuminates a variety of important, relevant issues: child models, plastic surgery, celebrity worship, airbrushed advertising, and potentially dangerous cosmetics.

Director Roberts will attend.

AN AMERICAN OPERA
THOMAS MCPHEE, USA, 2007, 91 MIN.
Friday, Nov. 16, 7:30 P.M.
Webster University

In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, America suffered the worst domestic animal crisis in its history. Tens of thousands of beloved house pets were left to perish in neighborhoods all across the Gulf Coast when the owners were forced to evacuate. Director McPhee traveled to Gonzales, La., to volunteer at the Lamar Dixon Expo Center and found himself photographically documenting thousands of rescued animals. For the next 16 months, he would record this historic event as it unfolded.

Director McPhee will attend and participate in a panel on the issues the film raises. Ken Foster, resident of New Orleans and author of “Dogs I Have Met” and “The Dogs Who Found Me,” will read from his work and serve on the panel. Other panel members include moderator Chris Green, producer of “Low and Behold” and animal-rights attorney; Sandy Lynn, a volunteer with Stray Rescue of St. Louis; and Theresa Williams, director of the Division of Humane Services in St. Charles County.

BANISHED
MARCO WILLIAMS, USA, 2007, 86 MIN.
SUNDAY, NOV. 11, 7:15 P.M.
TIVOLI THEATRE

LEAVE OR DIE: This was the choice white majority residents in a dismaying number of cities gave African-Americans between the end of the Civil War and the Great Depression. “Banished” reveals a shameful, hidden chapter in American history, told through the stories of three towns: Pierce City, Mo.; Harrison, Ark.; and Forsyth County, Ga. The echoes of racial injustice during the past century still reverberate in these communities, which forced out their entire African-American populations and remain all white to this day. Filmmaker Williams traveled to each town, conspicuous as the only African-American, and interviewed historians, civic leaders, residents, and the descendants of families who left their communities and property behind as they fled for their lives. His conversations sharply highlight the way these towns confront or ignore their legacy, and the roadblocks he encounters point to the difficulties facing reconciliation and reparation.

Director Williams will attend.

CALL OF THE WILD
RON LAMOTHE, USA, 2007, 105 MIN.
SATURDAY, NOV. 17, 7:30 P.M.
WEBSTER UNIVERSITY

AN EXPERIMENT IN reflexive direct cinema, “Call of the Wild” retrace the travels of Chris McCandless, a 24-year-old “aesthetic voyager” who starved to death in the Alaskan wilderness in 1992. Over the course of his journey, which takes him through 30 states, two Canadian provinces, and Mexico, filmmaker Ron Lamothe (“The Political Dr. Seuss”) encounters an entire cast of McCandless-inspired characters – some who knew Chris, some who didn’t. He also keeps running into Sean Penn, who’s in the midst of making “Into the Wild,” the recently released Hollywood adaptation of Jon Krakauer’s best-selling book about McCandless’ story. In Alaska, the film uncovers never-before-seen evidence that sheds new light on the case and directly contradicts Krakauer’s interpretation of McCandless’ death.

Director Lamothe will attend.

CHICAGO 10
BRETT MORGEN, USA, 2007, 103 MIN.
SATURDAY, NOV. 17, 4:45 P.M.
PLAZA FRONTEMAC

DIRECTOR BRETT MORGEN (“The Kid Stays in the Picture”) brings us this stylish, provocative dramatic reconstruction of the violent events surrounding the infamous 1968 Democratic National Convention. With the Vietnam War in full swing and Lyndon Johnson sending more conscripted troops to the increasingly unpopular conflict, a group of radicals and hippies envisioned a peace march to coincide with a national political rally. The film uses a deft mixture of archival footage, re-creation, animation, and music to look back at the eight anti-war protesters who were famously put on trial facing multiple charges of “civil unrest” that resulted in a showdown between the forces of government and nearly 15,000 protesters. Among the actors who provide the voices during the animated trial-transcript sequences are Liev Schreiber, Nick Nolte, Roy Scheider and Mark Ruffalo.
DARIUS GOES WEST: THE ROLL OF HIS LIFE

SATURDAY, NOV. 10, 12:30 P.M.
TIVOLI THEATRE
DARIUS WEEMS, a 15-year-old living with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, had never left his hometown of Athens, Ga. In the summer of 2005, he and a group of young college students traveled across the country in a wheelchair-friendly RV to test handicapped accessibility in the United States. Their ultimate goal was to reach Los Angeles and persuade MTV’s hit show “Pimp My Ride” to customize Darius’ wheelchair. Along the way in this multiple-award-winning film, they found joy, brotherhood, and the sweet knowledge that life, even when imperfect, is always worth the ride.

ELECTION DAY
KATY CHEVIGNY, USA, 2007, 84 MIN.
SUNDAY, NOV. 11, 4:30 P.M.
TIVOLI THEATRE
CAPTURING PEOPLE from all walks of life and many locales, including St. Louis, “Election Day” follows an eclectic group of voters over one day — Election Day 2004 — from the early morning until well after midnight. The film presents a glimpse of the real-life stories behind the complex electoral process and gives audiences a portrait of American elections that is expansive, revealing, and intimate. The film offers an entertaining and sometimes unsettling tapestry of stories about citizens who are determined on one fateful day to make their votes count.

Director Chevigny will attend.

FIRST SATURDAY IN MAY

SUNDAY, NOV. 11, 2:30 P.M.
TIVOLI THEATRE
SOME 40,000 Horses are born each year, but only 20 eventually make it to the Kentucky Derby — racing’s Holy Grail and the most exciting two minutes in sports. Just to get a horse to the gate in the world’s most prestigious race defies the odds. “First Saturday in May” follows six Derby hopefuls, including racing hero Barbaro, one of the most famous horses of the last 60 years. Whether you are a casual fan or an inside “race-tracker,” euphoria and heartbreak inevitably result when the legendary bugle call sounds on the first Saturday in May.

Co-director Brad Hennegan will attend.
Among the many devastating effects of Hurricane Katrina was the displacement of the musicians who pump so much life into N’awlins night-life. “Follow the Second Line,” a documentary work-in-progress, traces the path of several accomplished musicians – including clarinet player Evan Christopher and pianist Tom McDermott – from their pre-Katrina days to Paris and back to the U.S.

Director Shields will attend, and McDermott, a St. Louis native, will perform.

Hear and Now

Saturday, Nov. 10, 4:30 p.m.
Tivoli Theatre
Sunday, Nov. 11, 4:30 p.m.
Tivoli Theatre

Nov. 11 screening is fully captioned for hearing impaired.

In this deeply personal memoir, filmmaker Irene Taylor Brodsky documents her deaf parents’ complex decision to leave the silent world they had known and undergo a dangerous surgery to get cochlear implants. At the age of 65, Paul and Sally Taylor decided they wanted to hear their first symphonies, hear their children’s voices, and talk on the phone. How will this operation transform them, their relationship with each other, and the deaf world they might leave behind? This is a story of two people taking a profound journey from silence to sound. The question is, what will they make of it, and what might they gain – or lose – forever?

Director Taylor Brodsky and subjects Paul and Sally Taylor – both graduates of St. Louis’ Central Institute for the Deaf – will attend.

How to Cook Your Life
(Wie man sein Leben kocht)
Doris Dörrie, Germany, 2007, 100 min.
Sunday, Nov. 18, 1:15 p.m., Plaza Frontenac

Filmmaker Doris Dörrie (“Men,” “Me and Him”) turns her attention to Buddhism and that age-old saying “you are what you eat.” In “How to Cook Your Life,” Dörrie enlists the help of the charismatic, mischievous, and charming Edward Espe Brown – Zen master, priest and best-selling food author – to explain the guiding principles of Zen Buddhism as they apply to the preparation of food and life itself. Brown isn’t above cursing at an uncooperative bottle of oil and punctuates his culinary lessons with wry bits of Zen wisdom. Dörrie captures him surrounded by clearly adoring disciples at Austria’s Scheibbs Buddhist Center and in California, the San Francisco Zen Center and Tassajara Mountain Center. The last venue is where a younger Brown began his enlightened cooking career as a self-described “arrogant, bossy, short-tempered know-it-all” and from where he first conceived and wrote his landmark “Tassajara Bread Book.”

“IN THE CREASE” follows the Bantam AAA California Wave for the last month of their season leading up to the national tournament. For the boys, it’s their last season and their last chance to play together as a team. The film allows viewers a unique glimpse behind the scenes of a youth sports team as it pursues a championship. From the practice ice to the locker room to the tournament itself, the challenges the players face will resonate with any child or family with a child in a competitive sport.

Co-director Sarner will attend.

“MEETING RESISTANCE” is a unique, horrifying, compelling, and insightful verité-style documentary set in the streets, alleyways, and ubiquitous teashops of the Adamiyah neighborhood of Baghdad. It enters the physical and psychological heart of the insurgency against the American-led occupation. The film focuses on eight people, each with his or her own tale and reasons for opposing the American-led occupation. Co-directors and photojournalists Steve Connors and Molly Bingham spent 10 months among the people there learning about their lives, motivation, and goals. Their unsurpassed access and visually stunning cinematography makes this film required viewing for audiences around the world concerned with a deeper understanding of the current situation in Iraq and with the human condition of resistance.

Co-directors Bingham and Connors will attend.

“ORANGE REVOLUTION” by native St. Louisan Steve York explores the story behind Ukraine’s Orange Revolution. From the beginning, Ukraine’s 2004 presidential election seems a foregone conclusion. Even though the opposition presidential candidate, Viktor Yushchenko, holds a commanding lead in opinion polls, Ukraine’s post-Soviet regime has an iron grip on the police, the military, the media, and the electoral machinery. No one expects the election to be fair. Six weeks before the November 2004 vote, Yushchenko is poisoned. He barely survives, campaigning in pain, his face severely scarred by the toxin. With tensions mounting, Ukrainians head to the polls to make their choice, already convinced that their votes won’t be counted. When the blatant electoral fraud becomes clear, the people of Ukraine arise in a nonviolent revolution whose consequences are still playing out today.
THE PAPER
AARON MATTHEWS, USA, 2007, 78 MIN.
THURSDAY, NOV. 15, 7:30 P.M.
WEBSTER UNIVERSITY

“THE PAPER” TAKES an inside look at the pressures and problems of modern journalism as faced by the staff of a university newspaper embroiled in controversy. Following a year in the life of Penn State’s Daily Collegian, the film features first-time journalists struggling with the greatest challenges to the field: plummeting circulation, barriers to investigative reporting, and criticism of coverage. “The Paper,” directed by SLIFF alum Aaron Matthews (“A Panther in Africa”), is both inspiring and astonishing in its exploration of tomorrow’s journalists wrestling with key questions facing today’s national media.

A panel on the issues raised by the film will follow the screening. Participants include moderator Richard Weiss, a former St. Louis Post-Dispatch writing coach and metro editor, and faculty advisors from several area university papers: Avis Meyer (St. Louis University), Tom Pettit (Lindenwood University), and Lance Speere (SIUE).

PUNK’S NOT DEAD
SUSAN DYNNER, USA, 2007, 93 MIN.
FRIDAY, NOV. 9, 9:15 P.M.
TIVOLI THEATRE

“PUNK’S NOT DEAD” takes you into the sweaty underground clubs, backyard parties, recording studios, stadium shows, and shopping malls where punk-rock music and culture continue to thrive. Thirty years after bands like the Ramones and the Sex Pistols infamously shocked the system with their hard, fast, status-quo-killing rock, the longest-running punk band in history is drawing bigger crowds than ever, “pop-punk” bands have found success on MTV, and kids too young to drive are forming bands that carry the torch for punk’s raw, immediate sound. Meanwhile, “punk” has become a marketing concept to sell everything from cars to vodka, and dyed hair and piercings mark a rite of passage for thousands of kids. Can the true, nonconformist punk spirit still exist in today’s corporate-logo-laden culture? The doc features interviews, performances, and behind-the-scenes journeys with the bands, labels, fans, and press who keep punk alive.

Director Dynner will attend.

SPINE TINGLER: THE WILLIAM CASTLE STORY
JEFFREY SCHWARZ, USA, 2007, 90 MIN.
WEDNESDAY, NOV. 14, 7:15 P.M., TIVOLI THEATRE

“SPINE TINGLER” CHRONICLES the career of one of the last great American showmen, filmmaker William Castle, a master of ballyhoo who became a brand name in movie horror with his outrageous audience-participation gimmicks. Castle, whose films included “The Tingler” and “House on Haunted Hill,” was the inspiration for the outsized film promoter in Joe Dante’s “Matinee.” Among those featured in the film are Dante, Roger Corman, John Waters, Stuart Gordan, John Landis, Leonard Maltin, Forrest J. Ackerman, Samuel Z. Arkoff, and Marcel Marceau.

Director Schwarz will attend.
THE SURREAL NIGHTMARE of internationally acclaimed artist and professor Steve Kurtz began when his wife, Hope, died in her sleep of heart failure. Police who responded to the 911 call deemed Kurtz’s art suspicious and called the FBI. Within hours, the artist was detained as a suspected “bioterrorist” as dozens of federal agents in hazmat suits sifted through his work and impounded computers, manuscripts, books, his cat, and even his wife’s body. With a federal case in progress, and Kurtz himself unable to discuss certain topics, the film employs actors – Thomas Jay Ryan as Steve and Tilda Swinton as Hope – to explore the issues, both as their characters and as themselves. This dynamic experimental approach effectively illuminates the vital issues in the case.

“TAXI TO THE Dark Side,” which won the Best Documentary Feature prize when it premiered at the 2007 Tribeca Film Festival, was written, produced and directed by Alex Gibney, an Oscar nominee for “Enron: The Smartest Guys in the Room.” This powerful film examines the death of an Afghan taxi driver at Bagram Air Base from injuries inflicted by U.S. soldiers. In an unflinching look at the Bush administration’s policy on torture, Gibney takes us from a village in Afghanistan to Guantanamo and straight to the White House.

Director Gibney will attend and receive the Contemporary Cinema Award in Documentary.

A FLYING OCTOPUS, a Trojan horse, two 100-foot-tall soccer players – all made out of balloons. “Twisted: A Balloonamentary” is a story about eight people whose lives are dramatically transformed through their work with balloons. Subjects include a 20-year-old woman who grew up in a trailer park and took up balloon twisting to get off welfare and pay for college; a former felon and substance abuser who found God through balloons and now works as a balloon-twisting gospel minister; a British balloon superstar who travels the world teaching and lecturing about balloons; and a businesswoman who paid for her home with balloon-twisting money and entertains with provocative balloons at adult parties. This hilarious and heartwarming documentary is about passion, salvation, love, death, race, religion – and a whole lot of balloons.

A Walk into the Sea

Virtually Unknown Today, Danny Williams was Andy Warhol’s lover, the lighting designer for the Exploding Plastic Inevitable, and a promising young filmmaker. The discovery of 20 never-before-seen films that Williams made during his time at the Factory reveals a luminous talent and fills a major gap in the historical record. Director Esther Robinson, the niece of Williams, takes us on a personal inquiry into the truth behind her uncle’s mysterious 1966 disappearance. Combined with Robinson’s intimate interviews of surviving Factory members, the film gets beyond the icons and quietly dismantles the Warhol myth-making machine, allowing a deeper examination of the human fragility on which Warhol’s empire was built. Williams’ haunting, poetic images include appearances by Warhol, Edie Sedgwick, Paul Morrissey, Brigid Berlin, and Billy Name and perhaps the earliest known footage of the Velvet Underground.

Anyone moved by “The Oprah Winfrey Show” episode devoted to the work of Dr. Catherine Hamlin will find “A Walk to Beautiful” essential viewing. This devastating film follows five Ethiopian women who’ve sustained a horrendous childbirth injury called obstetric fistula. Shunned by neighbors, unable to work or even live indoors because of their condition, thousands of women in rural Ethiopia suffer from this tragically common consequence of obstructed childbirth in developing countries, where doctors are scarce and obstetric care is practically nonexistent. The film follows the women on their journey to Dr. Hamlin’s hospital in Addis Ababa, where they find solace and a dignified place to heal for the first time.

IT’S HARD NOT to like Tracy Orbison, a dopey Midwestern guy who excels in the food-stocking profession. He politely and passively lives out his days scribbling poems in a notebook during shift breaks and dreaming of making something more of himself. Thinking he may have found the answer, he enrolls in an acting class taught by a pompous Z-list has-been (William Baldwin). Though things don’t quite go according to plan, a tragically comic chain of events is set off that leads Tracy to take a more active role in his life: mentoring a young thug, fending off his obnoxious mother and sister, attempting to pass his driver’s exam, and trying to lose “about 10 pounds.” A different kind of everyman, Tracy Orbison reminds us all to take care when following our dreams.

FOR A YOUNG girl who wants to study medicine in Mozambique, the obstacles extend far beyond the distractions of her boyfriend and her family. A moment of weakness or an error in judgment can cost her a place at the university, an irretrievable loss in a country with so few opportunities for women. Director Joao Sol de Carvalho dedicates this film to the courage of young women who continue to strive against the odds, proving that educating a girl is not a waste of time in a land where it is perceived that “sending a girl to school is like watering another man’s garden.”

MASTER FILMMAKER SIDNEY Lumet (“Serpico,” “Dog Day Afternoon”) directs this absorbing suspense thriller about a family facing the worst enemy of all – itself. Oscar winner Philip Seymour Hoffman plays Andy, an overextended broker who lures his younger brother, Hank (Ethan Hawke), into a larcenous scheme: The pair will rob a suburban mom-and-pop jewelry store that appears to be the quintessential easy target. The problem is, the store owners are Andy and Hank’s actual mom and pop. When the seemingly perfect crime goes awry, the damage lands right at their doorstep. Oscar winner Marisa Tomei plays Hoffman’s trophy wife, who is having a clandestine affair with Hawke, and Albert Finney is the family patriarch who pursues justice at all costs, completely unaware that the culprits he is hunting are his own sons.

BIG DREAMS LITTLE TOKYO
DAVID BOYLE, USA, 2006, 86 MIN.
TUESDAY, NOV. 13, 9:30 P.M., TIVOLI THEATRE

“BIG DREAMS LITTLE Tokyo” is the story of the driven Boyd, who aspires to succeed in the world of Japanese business but finds himself mostly on the outside looking in. Meanwhile, his roommate Jerome is a Japanese-American who has always felt too American to be Japanese but too Japanese to be American. He aspires to be a sumo wrestler but finds his relatively “low” weight and blood pressure thwarting his dreams. Together, they struggle to find their place in a world where cultural identity is seldom what it seems. This charming, quirky comedy paints vivid characters and hilarious cross-cultural conflicts while finding both humor and drama in the inherent disconnects of the modern global community.

THURSDAY, NOV. 15, 7 P.M., TIVOLI THEATRE

SHOT ON LOCATION in St. Louis in 2006, “Bill” features Aaron Eckhart, Jessica Alba, Timothy Olyphant, and Elizabeth Banks in a comedy about a guy fed up with his life – from his soul-sucking job as vice president of human resources at a bank owned by his in-laws to his empty marriage to a scornful wife who has a suspicious “friendship” with a local news anchor. As his brother-in-law puts it, Bill is “in charge of making sure everything runs smoothly.” But Bill’s fate begins to change when he is forced into participating in his former prep school’s mentorship program. The self-assured boy who chooses him ends up reversing their suggested roles, helping Bill find the confidence to tackle his mess of a life. “Bill” is essentially a film about what it means to let go of your inhibitions and find the path you’re destined for.

BUDDING, 1956. KARCSI is a young water-polo star who becomes embroiled in the anti-Soviet revolution that is brewing in the streets. At first, he is only out for adventure, but a fiery female student catches his eye, and in following her steps he finds himself right at the heart of the uprising. With the subsequent retreat of the Red Army, the revolution seems to be a success, and he returns to his team to play at the Melbourne Olympics. Little does he know that the Soviets are marching right back into Hungary. Karcsi and his teammates show the world that this small nation will not be defeated by their actions in the pool during the most bloody and violent Olympic water-polo match in history.

AN ARROGANT, ZEALOUS, and overly ambitious debt collector goes about his job with an unreasonable conviction. Every day he somehow manages to steel himself and his heart against the drastic situations faced by many of the tragic and often very poor people he encounters. However, one day he is forced to pay a visit to an ex-girlfriend, a meeting that blasts through his emotional defenses and leads to a moral epiphany of sorts. His clumsy attempts at redemption for past actions are repeatedly met with scorn and ridicule while his own career goes down in flames around him.

TEINOSUKE KINUGASA, JAPAN, 1928, 80 MIN.
SATURDAY, NOV. 10, 7 P.M., SAINT LOUIS ART MUSEUM

IN THIS BEAUTIFULLY restored classic of Japanese silent cinema, Kinugasa (“Page of Madness”) tells this wildly surprising tale, set in 18th-century Japan, about a young ronin who, having killed a man in a duel over a geisha, turns to his protective older sister for help. Madness, prostitution, rape, murder, and blindness ensue. The expressionistic sets and costumes, moving camera, intense close-ups, and hallucinatory shots give “Crossroads” a haunting beauty.

New Music Circle will provide live musical accompaniment as part of its ongoing Circle Cinema presentations at the Art Museum.

New Music Circle’s Rich O’Donnell will provide live musical accompaniment on water-based instruments of his own devising.

THE CURIOSITY OF CHANCE
RUSSELL P. MARLEAU, BELGIUM/USA, 2006, 98 MIN.
saturday, nov. 10, 7:15 p.m., Tivoli Theatre

because of his military father, an already out and eccentric teenager is forced to attend an international American high school in the Netherlands, where he recruits a bizarre circle of oddball outcasts as friends. To help him bring down the homophobic bully threatening his peaceful existence in his new school, Chance enlists the help of the straight jock neighbor boy on whom he has a growing crush and an aging drag queen who inspires him to follow his own voice. “The Curiosity of Chance,” set in the 1980s, combines lively period music and some spectacularly flamboyant female impersonators into a John Hughes-type film that couldn’t have possibly been made at the time in which it’s set.

director marleau and star Tad Hilgenbrink, a native of Quincy, Ill., will attend.

“DAISY” IS THE tragic love story about the inevitable showdown between an Interpol detective and a professional assassin who fall in love with the same woman. A young Korean artist who paints portraits in the city square dreams of one day holding a solo exhibition of her works. She is a relative stranger in this city, and her only source of strength is the memory of her first love. Then she meets a new man – well, almost meets him: she never really sees his face, but after she gives him a drawing of a daisy, he responds by having a pot of daisies delivered to her door every day. This riveting film stars a number of major Korean film stars and is directed by celebrated director Andrew Lau, whose “Infernal Affairs” trilogy is the basis for Martin Scorsese’s Oscar-winning “The Departed.”

IN THE EARLY 1980s, Xiao Yun — a 16-year-old girl living in small riverside town in China — discovers that she is pregnant. The local community is stunned, her family loses face, and she and her boyfriend are expelled from school. In the aftermath, her boyfriend leaves her; she gives birth and is then forced to put her child up for adoption. Ten years later, Xiao Yunn is reduced to working as a singer in a local song-and-dance troupe. Her only real companion is Xiao Yong, a fiercely affectionate boy who protects her from the critical eyes of the community until a marriage proposal reveals the limits of their friendship and the depth of her unresolved past.

DISAPPEARANCES

JAY CRAVEN, USA, 2006, 103 MIN.
MONDAY, NOV. 12, 7 P.M.,
TIVOLI THEATRE

BASED ON THE award-winning novel by Howard Frank Mosher, “Disappearances” is a powerfully mysterious film from SLIFF alum Jay Craven (“Where the Rivers Flow North”). The story is set deep in the rural Northeast and features excellent ensemble performances by legendary actor/songwriter Kris Kristofferson, Genevieve Bujold, and newcomer Charlie McDermott. Kristofferson stars as schemer and dreamer “Quebec Bill” Bonhomme in a spellbinding tale of smugglers, a family’s mysterious past, and a young boy’s rite of passage. Bill, desperate to raise money to preserve his endangered cattle herd through a long winter, resorts to whiskey smuggling, a traditional family occupation. He takes his son on an unforgettable trip that will long remain etched in the viewer’s mind. Craven’s delightfully simple narrative operates on powerful metaphorical levels with a healthy dose of magical realism.

Director Craven will attend.

SLIFF HONORS ONE of the world’s most adventurous directors with a tribute to Peter Greenaway that features a rare screening of one of his best films: “Drowning by Numbers.” Tired of his philandering ways, the mother (Joan Plowright) of two daughters (Juliet Stevenson and Jolie Richardson) drowns her husband. Her daughters are having similar problems with their own marital relationships and elect to follow their mother’s gruesome example. As the film unfolds, visual and spoken numbers appear in the scenes, counting from 1 to 100, in typically fascinating Peter Greenaway fashion.

Director Greenaway will attend, receive a Lifetime Achievement Award, and participate in a career-spanning Q&A with RD Zurick. Greenaway also discusses and screens a “mix” of his water-related films in conjunction with the Pulitzer’s “Water” exhibit at a free program at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 17, at the Pulitzer.

WHEN THE GOVERNMENT grants amnesty to all war criminals, 16-year-old Atim is given a revolver by his grandfather so that he may kill the man who killed his father. Atim leaves his village seeking this man and quickly locates him. The former war criminal Nassara is now married and settled down as the owner of a small bakery. With the firm intention of killing him, Atim gets closer to Nassara under the guise of looking for work and is hired as an apprentice baker. Intrigued by the young man’s attitude toward him, Nassara takes him under his wing and teaches him the secrets of making bread. A strange relationship evolves between the two, and despite his inherent disgust, Atim seems to recognize in Nassara the father figure he has always needed.

IN THIS STELLAR adaptation of the hugely popular Claudia Schreiber novel, lonely and stoic Emma lives as a pig breeder at the shabby and hopelessly indebted farm of her ancestors. She slaughters the pigs in her own true way. She treats them lovingly till the last day, then executes them with a tender but lethal cut so that the dying animals bleed to death calmly and willingly in her arms. Max, recently diagnosed with a fatal pancreatic disease, impulsively steals a bag of money and an expensive car in order to leave Germany with the hope of living out his life on a beach in Mexico. Instead, he accidentally crashes his stolen car into Emma’s farm. She proves a wise seductress whose unique perspective on life and death helps Max achieve the ultimate liberation.

SET IN WAR-TORN Algeria in the 1990s, “Enough!” follows two women on the dangerous search for the younger woman’s husband, a journalist whose writings resulted in his disappearance. Both women represent anachronisms in Islamist Algeria: The younger woman is a doctor, the older a nurse with vivid memories of Algeria’s fight for independence. Ignoring curfews and the constant threat of ambush by armed militias, the two women challenge the men they encounter to accept them and help them with their search. Their journey leads them across the picturesque landscapes of Algeria to a deeper understanding of how their lives were shaped by their country’s history.

THERE WAS A time when Stanley Phillips (John Cusack) could see his entire life clearly. His ultimate dream of a military-service career was cut short because of his poor eyesight. Now he’s serving customers at a home-supply store while his sergeant wife is fighting in Iraq. Equally as awkward at home as he is at work, he’s clumsily raising two adolescent daughters who miss their mother deeply. While barely tolerating his job and stumbling through parenting, he is abruptly faced with a life-altering tragedy concerning his wife. Desperate to delay telling the children and trying to give them their last moments of innocence, they embark on a spontaneous road trip to Enchanted Gardens Theme Park. Stanley reveals a much softer side as they travel to their chosen destination, but Stanley knows he must face the inevitable task of sharing the awful news, thereby changing their lives forever.

BRITISH SILENT-FILM HISTORIAN Kevin Brownlow (“The Parade’s Gone By”) provides a new restoration of this silent masterpiece by acclaimed American director John Ford. Brandon, a surveyor, dreams of building a railway to the West, but Marsh, a contractor, is skeptical. Brandon sets off with son Davy to survey a route and discovers a pass that will shave 200 miles off the distance. In 1862 Lincoln signs the bill authorizing construction of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railways, with Marsh as contractor. Crews of immigrants work to build the railway while resisting Indian attack. To finish on time and on a safer path, they need to shorten the route by 200 miles. Davy, now a Pony Express rider, recalls his father’s discovery and attempts to find the pass.

This HILARIOUS NEW film by Jason Reitman (“Thank You for Smoking”) was the toast of both the Telluride and Toronto film festivals in September. Newcomer Ellen Page and rising star Michael Cera (“Arrested Development,” “Superbad”) are the focus of this quirky dark comedy about teen pregnancy and the unexpected consequences of using your heart to make important life choices. When 16-year-old Juno (Page) gets knocked up by her nerdy best friend (Cera), she decides to keep the baby after a disastrous visit to an unkempt abortion clinic. She turns to her working-class parents and announces not only her pregnancy but also an unusual plan to give up the child for adoption. The smart, plucky, and independent girl soon enough makes peace with her family and the wealthy, attractive yuppie couple who have agreed to adopt the baby, but her well-meaning intentions and the bizarre plan quickly go awry.

“KILOMETRE ZERO” TELLS a story of ethnic conflict between Kurds and Iraqis in the context of the war between Iraq and Iran in the 1980s. Set at a time when Kurds were conscripted to serve in the Iraqi Army, where they were brutally abused as a despised minority in Saddam Hussein’s military, “Kilometre Zero” pairs a Kurdish soldier, under orders to return the body of a dead soldier to his family, with an Iraqi taxi driver who will drive them cross-country to the dead soldier’s home. Scenes between the men, in the close quarters of their truck, are interwoven with scenes of often-comic incompetence of Iraqi soldiers and officers.

WITH A CHARLIE Kaufman-esque touch of structural innovation, this bittersweet comedy works on several levels at once. Marian Walker (Carrie Preston) is an angst-ridden writer with a case of writer’s block who is having significant challenges completing a book. For help, she turns to a former professor (Austin Pendleton) for advice, but his interest is not entirely professional. A surreal but strangely resonant parallel world develops from the novel she’s trying to complete, in which two oddball brothers survive on milk aboard a grounded ship. Eventually, the lines between real and imagined become blurred as her fictional protagonist enters the lives of two other characters, a father and daughter still coping with a death. Fascinatingly incisive about the suppression of personal trauma and its diversion into the creative process, this bittersweet film keeps revealing new complexities as it unfolds.

TURNER STULL, AN uninspired young man trying to figure out what he wants to do with his life, arrives in Katrina-ravaged New Orleans to work as an insurance claims adjuster. Greeted by his uncle, a seasoned adjuster, he is quickly immersed into the routine: Move fast, don’t get emotionally involved, and make a lot of money. But Turner, not prepared to deal with people who have lost everything, is overwhelmed. Turner’s lack of experience and uncertainty only makes things worse. In a moment of crisis, Turner agrees to help Nixon, a local man, find his lost dog. In exchange for Turner’s helping look for the lost dog, Nixon lends a hand with Turner’s insurance claims. As Turner and Nixon navigate their way through the storm-ravaged city, the people they visit and the stories they hear on their journey ultimately change the lives of both men.

This Italian box-office smash is a charming, bittersweet comedy, a refreshingly modern portrayal of love in all its incarnations that features some of Italy’s brightest stars. The fluctuating fortunes of relationships are chronicled through four intertwining episodes in a structure reminiscent of “commedie all’italiana” of the ’60s, each one played out by a different couple. The elusive, sometimes painful, always funny nature of love links the stories, which chronicle the dreamlike stage of falling in love, the heartwrenching midlife crisis, the impulsive and frenetic epiphany of betrayal, and the lonesome but ultimately revitalizing free-fall of abandonment.

THIS BOLD FILM addresses the somewhat taboo topic of homosexuality in contemporary Korea. Sumin is an orphan trying to balance work in a factory with his studies at an art college and a part-time evening job as a personal driver. One night, a rich young businessman, Jaemin, unsuccessfully tries to propose to him during one of his driving jobs. They meet again the next day during a round of redundancy cuts at the factory where Sumin works. Jaemin is in fact the boss’ son and makes an attempt to save Sumin’s job, but the younger man refuses on principle. Eventually, Sumin is seduced into working as a male prostitute in a boy-brothel as Jaemin’s obsession with him grows, leaving Jaemin helpless in the face of his overwhelming desire. This is a film of bold sexuality, where unexpected passion, desire, and misunderstandings wreak havoc on lives with an operatic intensity.

The perfect family film brings gentle humor to the complex relationships between parents and children and to social and religious issues of life in and around a rural Jakarta mosque. A sweet, heartwarming story, the film is told through the eyes and voices of children and features a prayer rug, young love – and eggs.

“There are moments when I feel like stepping into each of their stories,” says the photographer hired to document construction of a bridge that will connect Victoria with Rosario – two towns on either side of a river. “But that is a different movie,” he sighs, unaware that his own story will be changed by the lives he touches with his camera. Building the bridge takes years, transforming lives on both sides of the river. It brings engineers and construction workers, even creates its own legend – it is said that until they finish, it is not going to rain. Two carefree boys grow into teenagers as the bridge takes shape; a mysterious engineer touches the lives of the elderly sisters who rent him a room. The photographer’s pictures document the process of change, but even he is unprepared for the transformation that only begins when the bridge is complete.

Two women struggle with their personal demons and troubled bonds in this electrifying independent drama. Rosie and Sonia are two estranged sisters who haven’t seen one another in five years, having been on bad terms since their parents died in an auto accident. Now in their early 20s, Rosie and Sonia struggle to make it on their own. Despite their differences, Sonia asks Rosie to come home for her birthday party, and Rosie agrees. The party turns out to be a two-person affair held in an old farmhouse in the midst of a blizzard, and as the siblings try to buffer their tensions with drugs and alcohol, they bond in an alternately loving and painful manner as they confront their pasts.

“OSS 117: CAIRO, Nest of Spies” is the eighth installment in a long-running series of movies about OSS 117, a French superspy and European equivalent of James Bond. OSS eventually starred in more than 265 novels through 1970. The first seven film adaptations were sober and straight-faced; this eighth go-round (the first after a 38-year lapse) does a 180-degree turn to shamelessly poke fun at the rules established by the spy-film genre. In this wacky, side-splitting tale, OSS journeys from Rome to Cairo, where he investigates the death of a fellow agent who had been posing as the proprietor of a chicken farm.

THIS BIOPIC CHRONICLES the life of Noel Rosa, a well-known Brazilian poet and samba composer whose work forever changes the direction of Brazilian music. Rosa, son of a middle-class family living in the white, middle-class district of Vila Isabel, is raised to study medicine and become a doctor but instead prefers to write poetry, nurture friendships with easy women and black musicians, and make music. His feverishly intense life comes at a price: The poet and philosopher died of tuberculosis at the age of 26. Today, his musical legacy of 259 compositions belongs to the standard repertoire. The film impressively depicts the life stages of the man who revived the samba and shaped it into the music we know today.

WRITER/DIRECTOR PAUL SCHRADER (“Taxi Driver,” “Raging Bull,” “Affliction,” “Auto Focus”) offers a contemporary drama set in Washington, D.C. that revisits and expands on some of the themes he explored in “American Gigolo.” “The Walker” centers on Carter Page (Woody Harrelson), a popular socialite who serves as confidant, companion, and card partner to some of the capital’s leading ladies. These pampered women (including Lauren Bacall and Lily Tomlin) are married to the most powerful men in America, and when their husbands are too busy running the country to attend to their wives, they turn to their “gay best friend,” Carter. Carter’s loyalty is tested when his dearest friend (Kristin Scott Thomas) finds herself on the brink of a scandal that could destroy her reputation and her husband’s career. Offering to cover for her, Carter suppresses incriminating evidence, only to find himself the chief suspect in a criminal investigation.
