CLASSIC FRENCH FILM FESTIVAL

Sponsored by the Jane M. & Bruce P. Robert Charitable Foundation

Produced by

Aug. 13-15 at Washington University
Aug. 20-22 and 27-29 at Webster University

Presented by TV5MONDE

Sponsored by the Jane M. & Bruce P. Robert Charitable Foundation
Produced by CINEMA ST. LOUIS
WE THANK ALL OUR FRENCH-AMERICAN GROUPS WHO SUPPORT CINEMA ST. LOUIS

This page sponsored by the Jane M. & Bruce P. Robert Charitable Foundation.

Centre Francophone at Webster University
An organization dedicated to promoting Francophone culture and helping French educators.
Contact info: Salim Ayoub, Ph.D., Jane and Bruce Robert Chair in French and Francophone Studies, Webster University, 314-246-8619, francophone@webster.edu, facebook.com/centrefrancophoneinstlouis, webster.edu/arts-and-sciences/affiliates-events/centre-francophone

Alliance Française de St. Louis
A member-supported nonprofit center engaging the St. Louis community in French language and culture.
Contact info: 314-432-0734, bonjour@alliancestl.org, alliancestl.org

American Association of Teachers of French
The only professional association devoted exclusively to the needs of French teachers at all levels, with the mission of advancing the study of the French language and French-speaking literatures and cultures both in schools and in the general public.
Contact info: Audra Merfeld-Langston, president, Greater St. Louis Chapter, audram@mst.edu, www.frenchteachers.org

Les Amis (“The Friends”)
French Creole heritage preservationist group for the Mid-Mississippi River Valley. Promotes the Creole Corridor on both sides of the Mississippi River from Cahokia-Chester, IL, and Ste. Genevieve-St. Louis, MO. Parts of the Corridor are in the process of nomination for the designation of UNESCO World Heritage Site through Les Amis.
Contact info: 660-882-5946, info@les-amis.org, les-amis.org

Cinema St. Louis offers French programming at the annual Robert Classic French Film Festival and the Robert French and French-Language Focus at the Whitaker St. Louis International Film Festival (Nov.4-14, 2021).
The 13th Annual Robert Classic French Film Festival — presented by TV5MONDE and produced by Cinema St. Louis — celebrates St. Louis’ Gallic heritage and France’s cinematic legacy. This year’s featured films again offer a revealing overview of French-language cinema.

The fest annually includes significant restorations, and this year features a quintet of such works: Melvin Van Peebles “The Story of a Three-Day Pass,” Diane Kurys “Entre Nous,” Joseph Losey’s “Mr. Klein,” Jacques Deray’s “La piscine,” and the extended director’s cut of Jean-Jacques Beineix’s “Betty Blue.”

The fest also provides one of the few opportunities available in St. Louis to see films projected the old-school, time-honored way, with Agnes Varda’s “Vagabond” screening from a 35mm print.

As part of our year-long Golden Anniversaries programming, which features films celebrating their 50th anniversaries, the fest includes a pair of films from 1971: François Truffaut’s “Two English Girls” and Claude Jutra’s French-Canadian “Mon oncle Antoine.”

Completing the fest is our pandemic-delayed tribute to the late Anna Karina, who died in December 2019: Jean-Luc Godard’s essential “Vivre sa vie.” Every program features introductions and discussions by film or French scholars and critics. All films are in French with English subtitles.

VENUES

On Aug. 20-22 and 27-29: Webster University’s Winifred Moore Auditorium in Webster Hall, 470 E. Lockwood Ave.

CINEMA ST. LOUIS BOARD

Jilanne Barnes - Chair, David Johnson - Vice Chair, Roy H. Kramer - Treasurer, Wilmetta Toliver-Diallo - Secretary

Executive Committee - Barry Albrecht, Srikant Chellappa, Delcia Corlew, David Houle, Andrew Leonard, Joni Tackette, Sharon Tucci, Vince Volpe

Board Members - Kathy Corley, Greg Hoeltzel, Janet Park, April Powell, Paul Randolph, Carlos A. Restrepo, Jane Robert

CINEMA ST. LOUIS STAFF

Cliff Froehlich - Executive Director, Chris Clark - Artistic Director, Brian Spath - Operations Supervisor, Bree Maniscalco - Development Director

SPONSORS

TV5MONDE
ANN REPETTO
G+
RAC
Missouri Arts Council
WHTAKER FOUNDATION
Whitaker Foundation
ROBERT GARRICK

TICKET INFO

Tickets: Tickets are $14 for general admission; $11 for students and Cinema St. Louis members. Advance tickets can be purchased through the Cinema St. Louis website.

Passes: Two types of passes are available: Five-Film Passes are $60, $45 for CSL members; All-Access Passes are $100, $80 for CSL members.

PARKING

Washington U.: Free parking is available on the street and in the yellow-zone sections of lots along Forsyth Boulevard and in the nearby East End parking facility; no permits are required on weekends.

Webster U.: Free parking is available in the lots both in front of and behind Webster Hall; no permits are required on weekends.
"Peppermint Soda," the film is darker in tone, with an introduction and post-film discussion by Colin Burnett, associate professor of Film & Media Studies at Washington U. and author of "The Invention of Robert Bresson: The Auteur and His Market."

Claude Jutra’s evocative portrait of a boy’s coming of age in wintry 1940s rural Quebec has been consistently cited by critics and scholars as the greatest Canadian film of all time. Delicate, naturalistic, and tinged with a striking mix of nostalgia and menace, “Mon oncle Antoine” follows Benoit, as he first encounters the twin terrors of sex and death, and his fellow villagers, who are living under the thumb of the local asbestos-mine owner. Set during one ominous Christmas, “Mon oncle Antoine” is a holiday film unlike any other and an authentically detailed illustration of childhood’s twilight. Roger Ebert writes: “The key action in Claude Jutra’s ‘Mon Oncle Antoine’ takes place over a period of 24 hours in a Quebec mining town. Although the film begins earlier in the year, everything comes to a focus beginning on the morning of Christmas Eve and closing on the dawn of Christmas. During that time, a young boy has had his life forever changed. This beloved Canadian film is rich in characters, glowing with life in the midst of death.”

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Lionel Cuillé, teaching professor in French and director of the cultural center French ConneXions at Washington University.

Sponsored by

Mon Oncle Antoine
Claude Jutra, Canada, 1971, 104 min., color, DCP

Entre Nous/Coup de foudre
Diane Kurys, France, 1983, 110 min., color, new restoration, DCP

Mr. Klein
Joseph Losey, France, 1976, 123 min., color, new restoration, DCP

Vagabond/Sans toit ni loi
Agnès Varda, France, 1985, 105 min., color, 35mm print

visible in pained eyes and small gestures of entreaty. Vincent Canby in the New York Times writes: “‘Entre Nous’ is not a movie-as-short story. It’s a novel-sized film, the kind that is so perfectly realized in vivid incidents that, not until the end does one realize how big it is and how effortlessly it has covered so much social and psychological territory.” “Entre Nous” was nominated for the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar.

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Colin Burnett, associate professor of Film & Media Studies at Washington U. and author of "The Invention of Robert Bresson: The Auteur and His Market."

Sponsored by

Mr. Klein
Joseph Losey, France, 1976, 123 min., color, new restoration, DCP

Expatriate American director Joseph Losey (“The Prowler,” “The Go-Between,” “The Servant”) worked primarily in the U.K. after his Blacklist exile from Hollywood, but in the latter part of his career, he made a trio of French-language films, beginning with “Mr. Klein.” In Occupied France, Mr. Klein (Alain Delon) — a Roman Catholic — exploits the desperate situation of the Jews by buying and selling their works of art. But when a Jewish man of the same name surfaces in Paris, Klein comes under suspicion and experiences the persecution of his countrymen firsthand, eventually becoming ensnared in the so-called Vél d’Hiv Roundup, the mass arrest of Parisian Jews in July 1942. The LA Times writes: “Moody, elegantly disturbing and impeccably made by a master director, this story of blurred identities and casual immorality in German-occupied Paris benefits from what might be the best performance of star Alain Delon’s long career as well as potent cameos by Jeanne Moreau, Michel Lonsdale and Juliet Berto.” At the 1977 César Awards — France’s Oscars — “Mr. Klein” won Best Film, Best Director, and Best Production Design (by the legendary Alexandre Trauner).

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Pier Marton, video artist and self-described "Unlearning Specialist at the School of No Media.” Marton has lectured about his work at MoMA in New York, among other museums; lectured at Yad Vashem: The World Holocaust Remembrance Center in Jerusalem; and taught at several leading U.S. universities. He regularly presents films at the St. Louis Holocaust Museum. He also has written for Cahiers du Cinéma.

Sponsored by Ann Repetto

Sponsored by

Vagabond/Sans toit ni loi
Agnès Varda, France, 1985, 105 min., color, 35mm print

With this screening of "Vagabond," one of her essential films, the Classic French Film Festival pays homage to the late Agnès Varda — director of such masterpieces as “Cléo from 5 to 7,” “One Sings, the Other Doesn’t,” “The Gleaners and I,” and “Faces Places”) — who died last year

Sponsored by

The Invention of Robert Bresson: The Auteur and His Market
Colin Burnett

Sponsored by

7:30 PM FRIDAY, AUG. 20, WEBSTER U.

Vagabond/Sans toit ni loi
Agnès Varda, France, 1985, 105 min., color, 35mm print

With this screening of "Vagabond," one of her essential films, the Classic French Film Festival pays homage to the late Agnès Varda — director of such masterpieces as “Cléo from 5 to 7,” “One Sings, the Other Doesn’t,” “The Gleaners and I,” and “Faces Places”) — who died last year

Sponsored by

The Story of a Three-Day Pass/La permission

Melvin Van Peebles’s edgy, angst-y, romantic first feature could never have been made in America. Unable to break into a segregated Hollywood, Van Peebles decamped to France, taught himself the language, and wrote a number of books in French, one of which, “La permission,” would become his stylistically innovative feature debut. Turner (Harry Baird), an African-American soldier stationed in France, is granted a promotion and a three-day leave from base by his casually racist commanding officer and heads to Paris, where he finds whirlwind romance with a white woman (Nicolette Berger) — but what happens to their love when his furlough is over? Van Peebles creates an exploration of the psychology of an interracial relationship as well as a commentary on France’s contradictory attitudes about race that is playful, sarcastic, and stingingly subversive by turns, and that laid the foundation for the scorcherd-earth cinematic revolution he would unleash just a few years later with “Sweet Sweetback’s Baadasssss Song.” The New Yorker’s Richard Brody writes: “(The film) looks starkly, intimately, and imaginatively at the double life of a black soldier in the U.S. Army. All the more remarkably, it’s a French film: Van Peebles made it while living in Paris, and although its protagonist is American and much of the film is in English, the movie reflects the stylistic variety and the freewheeling innovation of the French New Wave.”

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Diane Carson, professor emerita of film at St. Louis Community College at Meramec and film critic for KDHX (88.1 FM).

Sponsored by
after a hugely diverse and influential career. Sandrine Bonnaire won the Best Actress César for her portrayal of the defiant young drifter Mona, found frozen to death in a ditch at the beginning of “Vagabond.” The film pieces together Mona’s story through flashbacks told by the people — played by a largely nonprofessional cast — she encountered on her travels, producing a splintered portrait of an enigmatic woman. With its sparse, poetic imagery, “Vagabond” is a stunner and won Varda the top prize at the Venice Film Festival. Little White Lies writes: “‘Vagabond’ is a film which combines everything that Varda does best: a story ripped from the headlines which she refuses to fully fictionalise; a strong female lead who battles against a patriarchal system and against people who can’t comprehend her anxieties; a love of those liminal spaces between cities, roads, buildings – locations which appear as blank spaces on maps; a belief in building stories through small nuance rather than sweeping gestures.”

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Kathy Corley, documentary filmmaker and professor emerita of film at Webster University. Sponsored by Ann Repetto

Vivre sa vie/Vivre sa vie: Film en douze tableaux

Jean-Luc Godard, 1962, 85 min., B&W, Blu-ray

As a tribute to actress Anna Karina, who died in December 2019, the Classic French Film Festival offers “Vivre sa vie.” A turning point for Jean-Luc Godard, the film remains one of his most dynamic works, combining brilliant visual design with a tragic character study. The lovely Karina, Godard’s greatest muse, plays Nana, a young Parisian who aspires to be an actress but instead ends up a prostitute, with her downward spiral depicted in a series of discrete tableaux of daydreams and dances. Featuring some of Karina and Godard’s most iconic moments — from her movie-theater vigil with “The Passion of Joan of Arc” to her seductive pool-hall strut — “Vivre sa vie” is a landmark of the French New Wave that still surprises at every turn.

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Pete Timmermann, director of the Webster U. Film Series and adjunct professor of film studies at Webster U. Sponsored by

Betty Blue

Jean-Jacques Beineix, France, 1986, 185 min., color, new restoration of extended director’s cut, Blu-ray

When the easygoing would-be novelist Zorg (Jean-Hugues Anglade) meets the tempestuous Jeanne (Béatrice Dalle), their attraction blooms. "They were more resolute than in love," says the narrator. "Their program was simple: live first and define it later." At the end of the week, we see them in a long-shot, rowing away from the island — in separate rowboats." The bright sun of the French Riviera is deceptive in this alluring work of slow-burn suspense from thriller specialist Jacques Deray and legendary screenwriter Jean-Claude Carrière (who died in February this year). Formerly one of Europe’s cinema’s most iconic real-life couples, Alain Delon and Romy Schneider reunited for this film, bringing a palpable erotic chemistry to their performances as the bronzed and beautiful vacationers whose summer holiday on the Côte d’Azur is interrupted by the arrival of an old acquaintance (Maurice Ronet) and his 18-year-old daughter (Jane Birkin) — unleashing a gathering wave of sexual tension, jealousy, and sudden violence. A paragon of 1960s modernist cool thanks to effortlessly chic clothes and a loungey Michel Legrand score, “La piscine” divests deep to reveal sinister undercurrents roiling beneath its seductive surfaces. This screening serves as a modest homage to the prolific Carrière, perhaps best known for his provocative collaborations with Luis Buñuel. The LA Times writes: “Your summer movie cocktail of sun-dappled desire with a splash of bitter provocation over ice awaits with the welcome restoration of the 1969 French film ‘La Piscine.’ It’s two hours of beautiful people in tantalizing states of undress and unease that might just have you practicing your most chic mysterious chaise longue poses ahead of your next swim party.”

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Calvin Wilson, theater critic for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who also writes on film, dance, and music. Sponsored by

Two English Girls/Les deux Anglaises et le continent

François Truffaut, 1971, France, 130 min., color, Blu-ray

Aided by the marvelous, impressionist-styled images of cinematographer Nestor Almendros and a swooning score by Georges Delerue, François Truffaut transforms his second adaptation of a novel by Henri-Pierre Roché (author of "Jules and Jim") into an overwhelming sensory experience. Trading that earlier, influential masterpiece’s vivacious energy for a more deliberate, dreamlike style, Truffaut tells of another turn-of-the-century romantic triangle, an even more regret-suffused tale of the elusiveness of love and the inexorable passage of time. The New York Times’ Vincent Canby writes: “François Truffaut’s ‘Two English Girls’ is a film of such beautiful, charming and comic discretion that it isn’t until the end that one realizes it’s also immensely sad and even brutal, though in the non-brutalizing way that truth can sometimes be. The film is filled with wonderful things, but I especially remember the sequence in which Anne and Claude spend a week in a cabin on a lake in Switzerland. ‘They were more resolute than in love,’ says the narrator. ‘Their program was simple: live first and define it later.’ At the end of the week, we see them in a long-shot, rowing away from the island — in separate rowboats.”

With an introduction and post-film discussion by Robert Garrick, attorney, board member of the French-preservation nonprofit Les Amis, and former contributor to the davekehr.com film blog. Sponsored by
The only professional organization devoted exclusively to the needs of French teachers at all levels.

www.frenchteachers.org
If you want to be the first to know about all Francophone events in St. Louis, join us on Facebook: Centre Francophone in St. Louis.

MASTER’S DEGREE IN FILM & MEDIA STUDIES
This post-baccalaureate degree emphasizes multiple approaches to historical and contemporary film and media while offering an extraordinary level of faculty attention and the opportunity to explore curating, research, teaching, creative production, and other professional and scholarly activities.

For more information visit: https://fms.wustl.edu/graduate

Film & Media Studies
Washington University in St. Louis | fms@wustl.edu
Discover a world of French language cinema!

From award-winning dramas to distinguished tributes, watch the largest selection of French language films and TV shows in the United States with English subtitles.

Start watching today | tv5mondeusa.com